

A FREE STARTER GUIDE

THE OVERRIDE

Break the pattern. Choose your life.

A short, practical guide to seeing the pattern while it's running, creating a pause, and choosing a different response.

One Pattern. Two Paths.

You are not your patterns. You are the one running them. Most of life runs on autopilot: the same trigger producing the same outcome, again and again. The Override is the one move that changes the path.

THE KEY INSIGHT

The trigger didn't cause the outcome. The story did. And the story was written a long time ago. The pause is where you catch it. The override is where you choose differently.

A terminal window with a dark background and yellow text. At the top, it says 'override_scan v1.0 :: 8 processes found'. Below that, a prompt '>' is followed by 'scan complete. 8 background programs detected. flag every one that runs in you:'. The main content is a list of 8 programs, each with a 2-digit ID (01-08), a name (THE_*.exe), a status box, a description, and a flag icon (a yellow square with 'FLAG' below it). The programs are: 01 THE_ACHIEVER.exe (CPU: 100%) - 'Does everything right and feels dead inside. Outruns the emptiness with more. The goal post keeps moving.'; 02 THE_PEACEKEEPER.exe (OUTPUT: MUTED) - 'Never says what she needs. Years of swallowed words have built a quiet wall of resentment.'; 03 THE_FIXER.exe (UPTIME: 24/7) - 'Solves everyone's problem so he never has to sit with his own. Feels most alive when he's needed.'; 04 THE_AVOIDER.exe (STATUS: PAUSED) - 'Won't start what she might not finish. Lives in a permanent state of almost.'; 05 THE_PERFECTIONIST.exe (LOADING... 99%) - 'Standards impossible by design. If the bar can't be cleared, he never truly fails. Just "not yet."'; 06 THE_PLEASER.exe (SHAPESHIFT: ON) - 'Learned early that love is conditional. Becomes whoever's wanted and lost track of what she wants.'; 07 THE_CONTROLLER.exe (ADMIN MODE) - 'Doesn't trust it'll go well unless he runs every variable. Control is the only safety he's ever known.'; 08 THE_DRIFTER.exe (IDLE: 6 YEARS) - 'Likable, capable, and in the same place for years. Goes along with everything. Calls the disconnection flexibility.' At the bottom, a prompt '>' is followed by 'loop detected: trigger.story.pattern.repeat // override available. naming yours is the first one.'

The 10-Second Pause

Between what happens to you and what you do next, there is a space. When the pattern runs, that space is a fraction of a second. It fires before you even see it coming. The work is to widen that space until there's room for a choice. Start here.

01

Notice the cue

Learn the physical signal that your pattern is about to fire: a tight chest, a held breath, a clenched jaw, a flush of heat. The body knows before the mind does.

02

Do nothing for ten seconds

When you feel it, don't respond. Don't send the text, say the thing, or take the action. Just breathe, slow out-breaths. Ten seconds. That's the whole drill.

03

Ask one question

In the space you just made, ask: "Is this a fact, or a story?" Then choose your response from there, not from the pattern.

TRY IT THIS WEEK

Pick one recurring trigger: a certain email, a certain person, a certain time of day. For one week, run the 10-second pause every time it shows up. Notice what changes.

YOUR NEXT MOVE

Now run the override.

You've got the model, your pattern, and the first tool. This week, run the 10-second pause every time your number one pattern fires. Don't aim for perfect. Aim for interrupted. Small interruptions, repeated, become a different life.
